LIVELY SCHOOL BOARD SESSION.

It Is Expected at Special Meeting on Friday Evening

TYPEWRITERS WILL BE UP

Several of the Directors Want to be "Shown" Regarding that Proposition and Hot Speeches Are Being Prepared—Elect a Teacher.

A special meeting of the School Board has been called for Friday evening and the session promises to be warm. One or two members are on the warpath and may start something. The purchase of five typewriters will be one of the matters to be taken up. At the last meeting the Supply Committee was authorized to purchase Underwoods at $70. Two days later it was suddenly discovered that the current price of machines is $50 each, and the apparent effort of someone to pull down a rake off of $20 on each machine was nipped in the bud. It is almost certain that an effort will be made at the meeting next Friday evening to find who was responsible for this.

Unfortunately for him, Principal Bruce Cobaugh has been placed in a bad light. It was Mr. Cobaugh who recommended the Underwood to the Supply Committee; and it was also him who submitted the Supply Committee's report to the Board. It is learned, however, that Mr. Cobaugh was innocent in the matter. Borough Superintendent Deffenbaugh and Principal Cobaugh were neither aware that the typewriter concerns had reduced the price on machines to High Schools. They innocently, it appears, fell victims to the scheme of someone to get more for the machines than should have been charged.

The incident has been particularly unfortunate in many respects. Several members of the board have openly declared that in the future they will draw their own conclusions instead of acting entirely according to the recommendation of either Superintendent Deffenbaugh or Principal Cobaugh has practically assured the matter being passed by the board. Whether this will hold good in the future remains to be seen.

Director James S. Darr, who is just out following a severe attack of grip, is preparing to insurge once more. Darr intends to lecture the board for accepting the report of Principal Cobaugh when no member of the supply Committee was present to report. Darr is also preparing several other shots he intends to hurl at several unsuspecting heads. Other members will participate in the discussion over typewriters.

"You can state positively that we will not buy Underwoods," said one member of the board yesterday. "After a trick like that I will see that that make of machine doesn't get in the school here while I am on the Board."

This seems to be the consensus of opinion. The insurgents of the board were the ones who exposed the attempt at typewriter extravagance, insurgence 2, something worse. It is possible that they have gained some recruits as a consequence.

The principal business of the board will be to elect a principal for the Third Ward school, a vacancy existing.

ELECT PITTSBURGERS.

Moose Defeat "Insurgents" Ticket at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Aug. 24.—After one of the most bitter fights in the history of the order, the "organization" candidates for the supreme officers of the Loyal Order of Moose were elected at the twenty-second annual convention of the order yesterday for the ensuing year: E. T. Tuner of Columbus, Ohio, was chosen Dictator over James L. Lennon of Philadelphia, the candidate of the "insurgents."

The other officers follow: Supreme Vice Dictator, Arthur H. Jones, Pittsburg; Supreme Prelate, Ralph L. Dodges, Newark, N. J.; Supreme Treasurer, B. F. The buildings will be part of the equipment of the great $3,000,000 freight yards completed recently at Northumberland

Pointed a Gun; Sam Taylor is Held for Court

Special to The Courier.

UNIONTOWN, Aug. 24.—Charged with pointing a revolver at Anna Mehala when she raised a brick and was about to strike him down, Sam Taylor was held for court today by Squire John Boyle. Taylor is colored and is known throughout the section about Waltersburg as a bad man. Lately he has been hauling ashes at the Peanut works. It was his misfortune on Saturday to get into an argument with Mike Mehala, and both were badly used up in the fight that followed. The negro returned to his home, secured a revolver and when he arrived at the scene of the trouble he was surprised to find that Mike's wife had joined in the scrap.

Squire Boyle also held him on a charge of assault and battery, both informations being sworn to by the wife. He has served a number of sentences both in the jail and workhouse.

Demonstration of Spanish Clericals for Next Month

United Press Telegram.

MADRID, Aug. 24.—The Spanish clerical party is completing plans for a tremendous showing of strength throughout the country in September. Instead of one big demonstration at San Sebastian it is proposed to hold hundreds of smaller meetings.

The scheme will permit a larger number of Catholics and Carlists to participate. It will also be impossible for the government to mass troops to any advantage and stop the demonstrations.

WELCOME HOME!

Jimmy Tinn Again Appears at Borough Bastile and Looks Natural.

James Tinn, with one arm and one leg, and one souse, bowed before his honor, Acting Burgess J. B. Millard, this morning, and implored that he be released. His story was almost touching. From the narrative, one would almost have believed that a Merchants Picnic without Jim Tinn's presence would have been a flat failure, but the stern magistrate thought different. He will live on the borough pocketbook for the coming 18 hours.

Snake Scares Postmistress.

BUTLER, Aug. 24.—(Special.)—A live housesnake, three feet long, without stamp or postmark, crawled from a mail sack last night when Mrs. Winifred Turk, postmistress of Hilliard, opened the sack. Mrs. Turk and Miss Mary Smith, her assistant, fled in terror, and so did the snake.

Leisenring Men Are Fined.

Hugh Long and John McKenna, of Leisenring, were fined $10 each and costs following a hearing Tuesday evening before Justice of the Peace Robert McLaughlin, of Dunbar township, on charges of disorderly conduct on a West Penn car.

NO TYPHOID FROM WATER IS CLAIMED.

Superintendent J. D. Stillwagon Makes That Statement Today.

SAMPLES FREE FROM GERMS

No Trace of Colon Bacillus Has Been Found in Any of the Water From This Section—New Fever Case Reported This Morning.

The latest report on the condition of the water used by Connellsville, like the others, is of the best. Superintendent J. D. Stillwagon heard from Dr. Francis C. Phillips, of the Chemistry Department of the University of Pittsburg, last evening. Owing to serious illness in the latter's family, he has been late in sending in his report, and use the phone in order to give the company a quick report.

The samples from which the last test was made, was submitted last Thursday, it taking from 36 to 48 hours in which to incubate the water. Four samples were sent in, from the McCoy and Breakneck reservoirs, from the Yough river and from the filter basin. All showed there was not the slightest trace of colon bacillus, or fever germs. The bacteria per centimeter was lowest in the filtered water.

Superintendent Stillwagon stated this morning that he was certain that not one of the typhoid fever cases in Connellsville could be traced to the use of their water, though there has been reports to this effect about town.

Another case of fever was reported last night. John Patterson of Prospect street, employed by Sparks & Adams, has not been in good health for some time, and his case was diagnosed as typhoid, yesterday.

STRIKE COAL.

Stanley Construction Company Runs on Vein at Bear Run.

The W. F. Stanley Construction Company, which has the contract on the Western Maryland from Bear Run to Ohiopyle, has struck a good thing. Just opposite Bear Run it has discovered a four foot vein of coal, which has been opened and is supplying all of the fuel used in operating the steam shovels and other engines. The cost of securing the coal amounts to almost nothing.

WIFE GETS ESTATE.

The will of the late Ralph Downs, who committed suicide in Uniontown last week, was left for probate yesterday. On the petition of his widow, Mrs. Hazel Downs, letters of administration were granted to her, no executor being named in the will. Personal property to the amount of $500 and real estate worth $5,000 is all left to the wife.

NICARAGUA HAS NEW PRESIDENT SINCE VICTORY.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 24.—According to the latest advices from Managua, Nicaragua, the head of the government of that country is now General Juan Estrada, although the executive chair is now occupied by his brother, Jose Dolores Estrada. Two Indians Killed.

WARREN, Pa., Aug. 24.—(Special.) Lou Halftown and Leonard Jimmerson, both Cornplanter Indians, were killed yesterday on the Pennsylvania railroad above Kinzua. The Indians broke into a cider mill, stole a quantity of cider and went up the railroad track to hold an old time Indian powwow. After finishing the cider they lay down to sleep off the effects of their debauch.

Youngstown Loses School.

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Aug. 24.—(Special.)—Chances of having the new State Normal school, which is to be located in the northeastern part of the State, brought here seem remote. A letter received from the commission states that it is the opinion of the majority of the members that this town is too large to have the institution.

Bryan's Cousin Injured.

BUTLER, Pa., Aug. 24.—(Special.) T. J. Bryan, aged 65, a second cousin of William J. Bryan, was probably fatally injured at his farm near Hooker, Pa. Bryan was loading straw in the barnyard when his team ran off. He was rolled between the fence and one of the horses and then struck by the wagon. His skull was fractured.

CARMICHAELS IS SWEPT BY FLAME.

Pretty Greene County Town Suffers Loss of $20,000.

PRACTICALLY NO INSURANCE

Only One of the Victims Will Receive Anything and His Policy Was for But $4,000—Fire Raged for Three Hours.

Special to The Courier.

WAYNESBURG, Aug. 24.—Carmichaels, along the Monongahela river in Greene county, was visited by a disastrous fire during the early morning hours today the loss reaching $20,000. The only insurance was $4,000 carried on a stock of goods carried by one merchant whose store is a total loss.

The dwelling of Mrs. Mary Hathaway, Henry Watters and Minor Ross were burned to the ground and none of their contents was saved. The general store of O. W. Rogers, located in the Ross building, and the meat market of William McCombs were also wiped out.

The fire was discovered at 2.10 this morning in the Ross residence, the finest in Carmichaels. It is situated on a corner lot in Main street, opposite the public square. Mr. Ross and his family had a narrow escape from death in the flames. The flames spread rapidly to the other buildings.

There was no way to fight the fire. Two sections of hose were brought from a livery stable and attached to pumps, but this gave little relief. A bucket brigade was also formed which saved adjoining property. The Waynesburg firemen came to the rescue of Carmichaels in automobiles. They dynamited the building of Winfield Regester, in which was located the shoe repairing establishment of John Hallack. The dynamite prevented the flames from spreading.

At 4 o'clock the Uniontown steam engine arrived but was unable to do any good. By 5 o'clock the fire had about burned itself out.

Several persons were badly burned. Mrs. E. F. Pennington, while hurrying to get out of the fire zone, slipped and fell into a cisterm. She had a narrow escape from drowning.

Hundreds flocked to the fire from Masontown, Brownsville and other nearby towns. The town was absolutely without fire protection. The buildings on the opposite side of Main street were scorched and the paint badly blistered, but this was the only damage done to adjoining property.

GLOTFELTY'S SELL.

Mountain and Kelly Take Over Pittsburg Street Restaurant.

Glotfelty's restaurant on North Pittsburg street, was sold yesterday to F. Lloyd Mountain and C. B. Kelly. Mountain had an interest in the place prior to taking over the remainder of the business, together with Kelly. The former proprietors were H. A. Glotfelty and W. W. Glotfelty.

The amount for which the restaurant sold was not made public.

Cut Out Drill Nights.

Owing to the hot weather, the weekly drill of Company D has been dispensed with for possibly the next two months.

Offered Bribe to Councilmen; is Sent to Jail

Special to The Courier.

GREENSBURG, Aug. 24.—Edward Curry, a justice of the peace and also town clerk of the Council of McMahan borough, was committed to jail Tuesday by Squire Truxal on the charge of offering a bribe. The prosecutor in the case is A. J. Beistel, a member of the borough council, and a very prominent citizen in that town.

The trouble all came about by Squire Curry wishing to get money easy by the sale of several of his lots in the town. Some time ago the Council decided to purchase a couple of lots for the use of the borough. The town is growing and the city officials desire to buy property which may be of use for public buildings in the future. Curry had the goods for sale. It is alleged that he went after the councilmen so vigorously that he offered $25 to each one of two councilmen if they would induce the body to railroad through the sale of his lots. For this line of procedure he was trapped.

Corned Beef Is Evidence Against Men

UNIONTOWN, Aug. 24.—A can of corned beef was the principal evidence that resulted in the holding of James Larimer and David Jones for court this morning by Squire John Boyle. Last Friday the general store of Louis Richnafsky, at Orient, was entered during the night and about $25 worth of food stuffs, cigars and cigarettes were carried away.

Special Officer Jesse Wyatt was at once put on the trail and by noon had run the men to ground. They denied the charges of robbery preferred against them, but the can of meat found on the person of Jones was considered sufficient evidence on which to send the case to a jury.

Dunbar Tests Fire Engine But May Not Buy It

Dunbar thinks of buying a chemical apparatus. A demonstration of the machine was given last evening in a vacant field at the edge of town, and from reports, that part of the program did not amount to very much. The apparatus consists of two tanks in which the chemical is mixed, together with a reel of hose. A representative of the company was present to operate the engine.

Some think the town does not need such a machine, but requires better water facilities. For the size of the engine, the price asked, $750, seems large, and council may not make the purchase.

LARGE CROWD AT KENNYWOOD TODAY.

Seventh Annual Picnic Takes Over 2,000 From Town.

ARE HAVING A SPLENDID TIME

Three 10-Coach Trains Run Over the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad to Handle the Excursionists—Many Stores Are Closed.

More than 2,000 people attended the seventh annual picnic today of the merchants and manufacturers of town. Three special trains of 10 coaches each left over the Baltimore & Ohio railroad this morning, most of the cars being loaded to capacity and the others were filled. Quite a crowd joined the picnickers down the line.

The picnic this year was considerably larger than that which went to Olympia Park on July 23 of last year. Then only 1,675 tickets were sold from here. While Ticket Agent H. L. Douglass could not tell the exact number of tickets sold here this morning it is estimated that 2,000 is not a bad estimate. Two years ago the Baltimore & Ohio took 2,500 to Kennywood from here, together with 700 from Scottdale, 450 from Dunbar, 350 from Mt. Pleasant and 200 from Uniontown. The number attending today is considerably under the 1908 record.

The picnic was a decided success. Most of the stores of town are closed but other are not. Many of those reported to have a signified their their intention of closing are open for business. The Aaron Company states its name was used among the stores closing without authority. Graham & Company are open; H. L. Silcox, E. U. Hetzel, A. Hager and several others who were to have closed.

This had, apparently, but little effect upon the picnic crowds. This afternoon it is expected that a number of the baseball fans will leave the park in time to take in the Pittsburg-Philadelphia ball game at Forbes Field. This game was one of the drawing cards for the picnic which wasn't advertised.

Crisis Passed; Forest Fires are Burning Out Now

United Press Telegram.

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 24.—The government forestry office today reports fire conditions in the Northwest improved although the flames are still raging. Thompson alls, Mont., reports 600 rangers missing.

H. F. Kottkey, the ranger in charge of the 300 whom Supervisior Wiegel reported missing arrived this morning at Missoula with a few men. Kottkey said he didn't know the location of the others. They were last seen seeking means of escape. They had been sent to the Cabinet reserve and it is declared almost impossible to secure food there.

Aside from many reported disasters the forestry officials estimate the dead at 75 and the timber loss less than $10,000,000. They estimate the total property loss in Idaho and Montana at $20,000,000. Rain is falling in Northern Idaho.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Aug. 24.—United States troops fighting forest fires in the Tahoe National Forest today are making little progress. The flames spread rapidly and the property loss is enormous.

LOTMAN RELEASED.

Alleged Wife in West Virginia Does Not Appear Against Him.

Through the fact the county detectives have found it impossible to bring the alleged first wife of C. L. Lotman from West Virginia, the former Spring field township farmer was released from the county jail at Uniontown yesterday. He left at once for Fort Wayne, Ind., and will later move on to the State of Washington. He claims that his arrest was the result of spite work.

Feast on Grasshoppers.

Fire Destroys Big Store.

CLAIMS TO HAVE PROOFS.

Handwriting Experts Will Be Given Letters From Miss Laura White to Wisconsin Man.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 24.—Carl Fechnor of Sheboygan, Wisconsin, who is here to wage a legal battle for the $200,000 to $300,000 estate of Laura White, a recluse who was found dead in her home in Main street, Lawrenceville, and whose body was not discovered for several days afterward, turned over to his counsel yesterday some valuable papers and other evidence to support his claim.

The most important of these is a photograph of the dead woman that he claims was sent to him by her. The letter she wrote him, saying "I always called you nephew, but you are my brother, but for the memory of our parents I cannot tell you all," also was produced.

Handwriting experts will be given the correspondence by Attorney R. H. Phillips and compare it with specimens written by the woman now dead. Judging from the correspondence the attorney thinks Fechnor will be able to substantiate his claim to the fortune.

The photograph of Miss White, although it was taken a number of years before her death, her friends say, is an excellent likeness of her a few months before her death. Fechnor had always been under the impression she was an aunt, and never learned the truth of his birth until a few months before her death. At that time he received a letter from Miss White, in which she told him the truth, as he claims. With the letter also was a copy of her will, in which she leaves all of her fortune to Major Robert White and a check drawn on the Fidelity Title & Trust Company for $500.

Fechnor made another attempt to have the Fidelity Title & Trust Company cash this check yesterday, as he is penniless. His request was refused. It is stated that the other Major Robert White has been located in South Africa, but this cannot be verified. Fechnor declared this man is his brother, but that he had always believed his name to be Fechnor until Miss White informed him to the contrary.

Among the documents in the claimant's possession is one from the War Department in which it is stated that Major Robert White until a few years ago was an assistant surgeon in the United States Infantry. He received an honorable discharge a few years ago. Since that time his whereabouts is unknown.

Miss Laura White, the eccentric Lawrenceville woman so figures so prominently in the fight over the $250,000 estate, was a cousin of Dr. T. H. White of Connellsville.

Detectives Seek Plant Automobile Thieves May Have in This Section.

That somewhere in Western Pennsylvania there is an automobile counterfeiting plant where stolen machines are taken, made over to hide their identity and then put on the streets as new machines is the statement made by Pittsburg detectives

For months the detectives have been battling with this latest type of criminal. Every means has been employed to round up the marauders, but no trace has been found of the missing machines.

It was a mad race which two Pittsburg detectives made in the dark with two automobile thieves as their quarry that finally convinced their supporters that somewhere there is an illicit plant. The sleuths refuse to say in what direction the chase led. They saw a stolen machine being driven out Fifth avenue. Showing their badges, the detectives impressed another machine into service and followed the stolen car. The race was a hot one, but the pursued machine disappeared in the darkness. For a week the country for miles around was searched, and the trace secured may lead to the showing up of the automobile counterfeiting plant.

It is believed that in this plant is employed a corps of expert mechanics who have banded together to prey on automobile owners and defeat the course of justice. It is believed stolen machines are taken there, every mark of identity removed, the cars repainted and sent forth as new.

SECOND ANSWER FILED IN REID EQUITY SUIT

E. H. Reid Claims Statute of Limitations Bars Boyts, Porter & Company's Claim.

UNIONTOWN Aug. 24.—The second answer to the rule granted by the court last week, in the case of J. M. Reid against B. F. Boyts, E. H. Reid, George Seull, administrator of the estate of Edward Seull, and the Somerset Trust Company, trustee, was filed today by Attorney John Duggan, Jr., on behalf of E. H. Reid. The defendants were ordered to show cause why Boyts, Porter & Company should not be allowed to intervene as parties plaintiff.

The suit was brought to effect a settlement in the claim of this company against the Connellsville & Ursina Coal & Coke Company and the Ursina & North Fork Railway. The defendants state that the amount claimed is in reality equally divided between these two companies and that over $125,000 was derived from the sale of the holdings, this being held in trust by the Somerset Trust Company. However, they claim that the amount realized from the sale of the railroad was insignificant. A partial settlement of the case has already been made, each bill amounting to over $1,000.

E. H. Reid, in his statement filed today, claims that the debts are barred from payment by the statute of limitations, and that in the original petition, the plaintiff fails to state whether the debts had been reduced to judgments. He denies the right of the company to intervene.

Sweep New York Plan of Democrats; Plead for Harmony

United Press Telegram.

UTICA, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Taking advantage of the Republican situation John A. Dix, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, is here endeavoring to promote harmony among the party leaders. He conferred with a hundred prominent delegates in Oneida county and is apparently satisfied with the outlook.

"It means certain Democratic victory," declared Dix today when asked regarding the Roosevelt-Sherman clash.

Vice President Sherman refuses to discuss President Taft's repudiation of the deal with the Republican State Committee. There is no doubt but that Colonel Roosevelt is prepared to make a finish fight against Sherman.

Colonel Roosevelt today visited Douglas Robinson, his brother-in-law, at Jordanville. He spent most of his time rambling about the famous grounds, rich in Revolutionary history.

BIG BRICK DEAL.

Johnstown Capitalists Take Over Valuable Properties in Mountains.

Winter Rose of Lorain, Ohio, will likely be made manager of the Savage Fire Brick Company's plants at Hyndman and Williams, Bedford county, and at Keystone, near Meyersdale, as a result of the deal consummated today whereby W. Horace, Percy Allen and Forest Rose became the owners of the large concern. The company was purchased from Scott Dibert, John H. Waters, Samuel B. Waters, Dr. George W. Wagoner and Supt. H. H. Hill. All the purchasers are from Johnstown.

The par value is $500,000 and it is understood this was shaded a trifle. For various reasons the project had not succeeded as well as was to have been expected and Attorney Percy Allen Rose and his brother, Winter Rose are expected to put the plant into first class condition. In the property are 3,600 acres of land, part of it underlaid by the finest fire clay to be found anywhere.

Scott Dibert, one of the chief figures in the Savage concern, also owns the Mount Union Fire Brick Plant, which is an individual asset and it is understood to be profitable. Attorney Rose spent yesterday looking over the Savage Company's factories.

STEP OUTSIDE YOURSELF

And Get the Right Viewpoint on Your Own Money Matters.

Sometimes it is wise to try to step outside yourself and view your financial condition as you would that of a stranger. You are spending as much and sometimes more than you make. You are always hard up—getting, perhaps, a little deeper in debt every month. What's going to be the result? Lifelong poverty unless you go at expenses with an axe and chop them down. A savings account will help you to keep a balance on the right side of the ledger. Deposit a little money with the First National Bank of Connellsville as soon as you are paid. There will be less temptation to spend it when it is safe in a bank and 4% interest will help it grow. One dollar opens an account.

Shot May Prove Fatal.

ROCHESTER, Pa., Aug. 24.—(Special.)—John Hamilton, aged 19, the son of John Hamilton, is in a serious condition at the Rochester General Hospital as a result of being shot while returning to his home in Freedom. SIT TIGHT.

Taft is up at Beverly studying the putt,
Knox is off vacationing—office door is shut;
Wickersham is wandering, quieting his nerves;
Ballinger is telling how people miss his curves;
Dickinson is dallying in the summer breeze;
Hitchcock has gone hurrying off and over seas;
Nagel takes his case somewhere, so does Sec. Mac Veagh—
Hut!
The government goes on in its pleasant way.
Oh, but this is wonderful! Can it ever be
That we do not need a staff in Washington, D. C.?

Not a soul upon the job, and still the country lives!
No committees pouring lovely white-wash through their sieves;
No one pointing now with pride or viewing with alarm—
Just the hustle-bustle in the city, town and farm.
Let's keep still about it while the country runs itself.
Crops a-crowding fences, while the folks pile up the pelf.
Capitol deserted by the men of name and fame—
Hut!
The gentle government is going on the same!
Oh, but this is wonderful! Can it ever be
That we do not need a staff in Washington, D. C.?

EXPENSE IN CRIPPEN'S CASE RECORD IN LONDON.

Scotland Yard Never Before Expended $25,000 on One Crime.

It is estimated that pursuit, capture and trial of Dr. Crippen will cost the taxpayers of London $25,000. Never before has Scotland Yard spent so much in the pursuit of any criminal.

A large item in "the Yard's" Crippen bill is the cost of telegrams and cables giving descriptions of Crippen, which were sent to many continental, American and Canadian police headquarters. This item will amount to $2,500.

Twenty-five thousand large posters, containing descriptions of Crippen and Miss Le Neve, with reproductions of their photographs and handwriting, were scattered broadcast up and down two continents. Fifty clerks were engaged night and day for a long time in wrapping, addressing and mailing these posters. That will be a costly item.

Then there is the expense of sending Inspector Dew to Canada and the expense of another detective and a wardress who have gone to Quebec to look after the prisoners on their way back to England. Then there is the reward of $1,250, which will have to be paid to Captain Kendall of the steamship Montrose. There is, too, the cost of the long coroner's inquest, with the fees for analytical chemists.

The trial of Crippen will not be very expensive, nor will it last long. English criminal courts move with swiftness and without technicalities. It is not expected that Crippen's trial will consume more than three or four days.

If he is sentenced to death he will be hanged on the third Monday morning following the day of his conviction. Convicted criminals under a recent statute have the right to appeal, but the appeal court works swiftly and, like the lower court, pays little attention to technicalities.

NOTED LIBERIAN IN LONDON.

Widow of First President at Age of Ninety-two.

As the republic of Liberia is attracting a little of the world's attention at the present time it is interesting to note that there still lives near Battersea park, London, Mrs. Jane Roberts, widow of Joseph J. Roberts, who was elected the first president of Liberia in 1847.

Mrs. Roberts was born in America in 1818, the daughter of a Baptist minister named Waring, and went to Liberia with her parents, both octoroons, in 1824. She married Roberts in 1836 and visited with him most of the European courts in the fifties. She lived for over seventy years of her life in Liberia before going to London.

PRINCE A POOR LAWYER.

Fails to Clear German Burglar in First Case.

A laborer who appeared in the prisoners' dock in a Berlin police court on a charge of burglary had something of a shock when he heard the announcement that his defense would be conducted by his serene highness the Prince of Ratibor.

The accused having no counsel, the court had appointed the young prince, who is a member of the ancient house of Hohenlohe, to defend him. It was the prince's first case. The royal lawyer put up a spirited defense, but the evidence was too strong, and his first client was sentenced to four years penal servitude.

PITTSBURG, Aug. 24.—Stanley Zonchesky, aged 11, son of a Braddock mill worker, was struck by a Baltimore & Ohio train during the night and, it was believed, instantly killed. His badly mangled body was found lying a short distance from the railroad tracks shortly before daylight, this morning, by track walkers. It was some before the police were notified of the accident, and the body removed.

An undertaker was notified that his services were required, and was on his way to take charge of the body, when the boy's fingers were seen to move. In answer to a hurry call, an ambulance arrived with physicians. The boy was rushed to the hospital where an operation was performed in the hopes of saving his life. Afraid of Ghosts

Many people are afraid of ghosts. Few people are afraid of germs. Yet the ghost is a fancy and the germ is a fact. If the germ could be magnified to a size equal to its terrors it would appear more terrible than any fire-breathing dragon. Germs can't be avoided. They are in the air we breathe, the water we drink.

The germ can only prosper when the condition of the system gives it free scope to establish itself and develop. When there is a deficiency of vital force, languor, restlessness, a sallow cheek, a hollow eye, when the appetite is poor and the sleep is broken, it is time to guard against the germ. You can fortify the body against all germs by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It increases the vital power, cleanses the system of clogging impurities, enriches the blood, puts the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition in working condition, so that the germ finds no weak or tainted spot in which to breed. "Golden Medical Discovery" contains no alcohol, whisky or habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients printed on its outside wrapper. It is not a secret nostrum but a medicine of KNOWN COMPOSITION, and with a record of 40 years of cures. Accept no substitute—there is nothing "just as good." Ask your neighbors.

Holeproof Hose — Common Hose

What Our Six Months' Guarantee Really Means

Holeproof Hosiery is guaranteed to be as free from holes at the end of six months as it is the day you buy it. We give you this guarantee in writing so if any holes appear in six months you receive new hosiery free of charge.

Common hosiery has no such guarantee. It costs you just as much as "Holeproof," but at the end of six months it is worthless. You spend hours darning it when for no extra expense you can have "Holeproof" and do no mending. Why not have the best?

FAMOUS Holeproof Hosiery FOR MEN WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Insist on seeing the original Holeproof trade-mark. Many have imitated the guarantee but none have equaled the quality.

The makers pay 63 cents a pound for Egyptian and Sea Island cotton, but common hosiery is made from cotton at 12 cents a pound.

"Holeproof" uses 3-ply yarn in the body and 6-ply in the heels, toes and knees. Ordinary hosiery uses 2-ply throughout, yet costs you just as much as "Holeproof."

Stop in at our store and examine the hose. See how stylish and comfortable it is—soft, smooth and neat fitting. Learn the facts today.

Could only secure 250 more club pianos. You may increase club membership to 750. Hope this will meet demand as we can not buy more at the special price. Shipments of one car load a day will begin within ten days.

W. F. Frederick 7.35pm

¶ He bought 250 more pianos---all he could buy.

¶ Consequently the membership of the second Frederick club will be raised 250.

¶ Instead of 500 members, there will be 750 members.

¶ Each and every member sharing alike---to the last penny and to the smallest detail.

¶ And not because we are the originators of these big clubs, and not because big deals like this are only possible through a big house like ours, but these clubs are the fairest, squarest, most honor bright and business like propositions ever made to piano buyers.

¶ We renew our offer again---"If you can suggest anything that will improve the general plan or that will give to club members any further advantages or greater benefits than are now enjoyed by this club, let us have it and we will pay you liberally for the suggestion."

¶ Only this; the second of these big, broad-gauged clubs is a still greater success than its collosal forerunner of a year ago.

¶ This year it started with a rush and has kept it up.

¶ Last week and the week previous are the largest weeks in point of volume of business transacted in the history of our house. Both weeks were record breakers.

¶ At the very outset we saw that 500 pianos would not be enough.

¶ We saw that when this big, generous and liberal proposition got in motion, that its own momentum would carry it far beyond the 500 mark.

To provide for this Mr. Frederick went east and this telegram tells how he succeeded.

These are the Features that have made the Frederick Clubs the unprecedented success that they are.

1. This year's club will be composed of 750 members, instead of 500 members.

WEDNESDAY EVE'G., AUG. 24, 1910.

PRESIDENT TAFT'S TARIFF REFORM PLAN.

The President thinks he has discovered common ground upon which the warring Republican factions may stand this fall. He proposes that the inequities of the Tariff bill be corrected through action by the Tariff Board and the Congress on such individual schedules as are open to fair criticism. He thinks that a general Tariff upheaval may be avoided by the passage of a rule by both houses providing that any amendments which are not germane to the particular schedule under consideration shall be out of order. The object is to put the Tariff law upon a scientific basis; to make it elastic enough to correct its faults without destroying itself and precipitating a general recasting of the schedules with the attendant evil influences upon business which a general reopening of the case would involve.

The Presidential plan will be warmly welcomed by the business interests of the country if they are satisfied that its consummation will not disturb industrial and financial conditions, but there will be a disposition to fear that in the practical operation of the plan the President and the Tariff Board may start something in Congress which they cannot stop. If the President can assure the country that this will not happen, the solution of the difficulty will be a most happy one.

The work of framing a Tariff bill is perhaps one of the most delicate and difficult duties of the Congress because of the multiplicity of interests involved. Senators and Representatives naturally desire to protect their constituents, and their constituents expect them to do so to the best of their ability. Each community wants Protection for its products and Free Trade in others. In the face of these conflicting demands nothing but the influence of broad statesmanship, the statesmanship that is as big as the whole country, succeeds in formulating a Tariff bill which is reasonably just to all interests from the Trusts to the People, from the Producer to the Consumer, and which at the same time fulfills the primary object of this form of taxation, which is to pay the raising of revenue.

The much-reviled Payne-Aldrich bill has proven its ability as a revenue-producer at a time when this feature of a Tariff bill was necessary to national finances, and its revision in any portion should be considered with much care and wise judgment. It is admitted that the bill is not perfect, and if its imperfections may be gradually smoothed away without disturbance to the country's business, and without halting what will otherwise probably be a further and decided return to national prosperity, the inventors and executors of that plan will receive the cordial thanks of the public.

THE PATRIOTIC WORK OF THE PATHFINDERS.

The discoveries of the Pathfinders who are busy locating the old Forbes road may not prove very utilitarian, but they will serve a higher and a better purpose if they reawaken public interest in patriotic achievements.

The preservation of this great nation depends upon keeping alive the spirit of 1776 and respecting the verdict of Gettysburg and Appomattox. When patriotism dies, the Republic will be dead; when respect for the principles enunciated in the Declaration of Independence ceases, the noble fabric of government which the Fathers reared and cemented with their blood will crumble into ruin; when memories of public services, gallant deeds and personal consecrations shall fail to arouse interest or veneration, the Spirit of Liberty will be sick unto death.

While possibly indulging a personal interest or pursuing a scholarly inquiry, the Pathfinders are doing a great work. They are blazing anew Patriotism's path; they are relocating Freedom's road; they are renewing the Nation's defenses; they are laying new foundations for the greater Republic.

American history always occupies a prominent place in the public schools, but local history is much neglected. Fayette and Westmoreland counties are historic ground. Some of their pioneer citizens loom up largely in the annals of the republic. The tales of their struggles and sacrifices are doubly interesting to us because of the fact that they wrought here and died here.

Local history should be taught in local schools, especially in those of Southwestern Pennsylvania. Its stirring pages teem with daring deeds, noble characters and great undertakings; and, above all, intense loyalty to country. These are the sources from which the seeds of oncoming citizenship should be watered, and they should be watered frequently and faithfully and well, for these are the future's hope.

Conservation has run counter to the local demand for coal in the Dakotas. The Governors of North Dakota and South Dakota are in Washington urging that the Federal Government open its coal lands to entry and settlement. Before the Secretary of the Interior takes such action, it may be wise for him to assure himself that the demand for development is in the interest of the consumer rather than the producer or the speculator.

The fire-swept West is getting some rain. Rain is needed all over the country, but perhaps nowhere quite as badly as in the West.

Hoke Smith and Joe Brown are taking the Governorship of Georgia turn about. If Republican sentiment continues to grow in the South, somebody else will take the job some of these days.

Pittsburg is just awakening to the fact that it needs diversified industries. Connellsville has been wise for some time past. In the game of uplift, we have some excellent players.

If T. Roosevelt keeps out of New York politics in this campaign it will be little short of a miracle.

Telephone tolls will be paid monthly hereafter. If the service is as prompt as the collections, the public will be satisfied; otherwise, not.

Connellsville cokeworkers' baseball is getting strenuous.

Statesman Sibley's withdrawal will not excuse him from explaining his expense account.

The Somerset county farmers are fighting against the diversion of their natural water supplies. The value of water is being better appreciated every year, and its value will continue to grow until its volume and quantity are better conserved under state supervision.

Scottdale has provided a home for the Keister Library, but the Connellsville Band Stand is still a Wandering Willie.

The Connellsville School Board does not believe in outdoor musical education.

President Taft denies that he has broken with T. Roosevelt. There is no reason why their relations should be strained, but there is every reason why the opposition should wish to make trouble in the Republican party. No sensible Republican should enroll himself in the army of trouble-makers. It's a Democratic job.

The unfilled orders of the Steel Corporation are not encouraging.

Warships soon become junk. International peace comes high, but we must have it. War is even more expensive.

Morgan valley is having a taste of typhoid. Watch the water supplies.

The Connellsville teachers are getting ready for school and their activities are not viewed with large enthusiasm by the average small boy.

Mine strikes are among the most stubborn industrial contests, and they are usually the least profitable to the strikers.

It is suspected that Fayette county licensees will be required by the court to serve meals as well as drinks.

In the Berlin neighborhood, the accidents of joy-riding are not confined to automobiles.

The boyhood habit of falling through the haymow has not ceased, but the Scottdale lad who scored last made a highly dangerous hit.

The foreign guest of the Connellsville lockup who insists upon sleeping on the railroad track takes a very careless view of his natural existence.

The Fayette county courts are inclined to make bootlegging a bootless business.

The Youngwood fair is a growing institution. While Youngwood is a railroad community, its enterprising citizens do not forget that Westmoreland is still an agricultural county.

The Western Maryland engineers refuse to tell just how they are going to get into and pass out of Connellsville. Most Connellsville people are satisfied to know that the railroad is coming in, and others who desire more definite information will have to hunt their own game.

The Connellsville couple who got a divorce and married again after a few days evidently didn't realize what they were to each other.

The English navy is considering the use of oil for fuel. Is this a Standard Oil scheme?

The Kennywood picnic ought to be a success. It has been well advertised, and much of the advertising has been free.

The Connellsville merchant who versified his determination to avoid Kennywood and seek the repose of Carmichaels, Greene county, found it a warm place if he got there soon enough this morning.

The latest West Penn extension is the victim of the usual right-of-way obstructions.

Where is the cold wave?

Land sold at administrators' sale does not always bring fancy prices.

Connellsville promises to become a beef center as well as a coke center. We hope there will be no "beefing" about this in the Beesontown Bugle.

The Uniontown Herald is giving the citizens of that town private instructions in the art of reading their gas meters. There is perhaps a melancholy pleasure in this occupation.

The Uniontown School Board's demand for free gas is rather late, but it seems to be well founded.

The Hopwood war on automobile scorchers continues unabated and uncompromising.

Fayette county has produced an aviator. The coke country is seldom far behind in the march of progress.

IN MEMORIAM
Joseph R. Stauffer.

At its last regular meeting this Board learned of the death of its Vice President, Mr. Joseph R. Stauffer.

Fully realizing the great loss thus sustained by this Bank and by the individual members of this Board, and appreciating his worth as a citizen and character as a man, it is fitting that at this, the first opportunity, we, the surviving members of the Board should record upon the minutes of our proceedings a humble tribute to his memory.

Joseph R. Stauffer was born in Tyrone township, Fayette county, Pennsylvania, June 29, 1836. He died in the house where he was born July 14, 1910.

His father was John M. Stauffer and his mother Catherine Sherrick, of German extraction.

Mr. Stauffer's youth was spent on his father's farm and his early life was that of the average American farmer boy.

In his early manhood he took charge of his father's mill and soon identified himself with the industrial development of Western Pennsylvania.

The construction of the Broad Ford & Mt. Pleasant railroad was largely due to his aid and assistance and later he organized and developed the Scottdale Iron & Steel Company, Limited, now a most substantial and flourishing industry.

While yet a young man he was solicited by the president of a leading bank of the State to become a member of its board. His interest thus aroused in the banking business continued until the time of his death.

In 1882 with the late Peter S. Loucks he established the Scottdale Bank. After the death of Mr. Loucks his interest was acquired by Mr. Stauffer who thereafter remained the sole proprietor of the bank.

Upon the organization of the First National Bank of Connellsville he became a member of its Board, continued as such until the time of his death, was elected Vice President in 1901, which office he has since filled.

Mr. Stauffer was a man of strong personality, small of stature but built on large and commanding lines. Among his distinguished qualities, which were many, was manliness. He was every inch a man. Vigorous, courageous and independent, he had a broad foundation of common sense, and was endowed with an intuitive fairness. Absolutely without ostentation, he was the most affable and approachable of men; of firm convictions, he was notably tolerant of the opinions and rights of others; a masterful judge of men and of things, he was never distrustful of others, but always hopeful and confident. He was ever mindful of little things—kind, considerate and friendly to everybody at all times and places, always ready, willing and anxious to help and to serve.

Possessing rare executive genius, unusual capacities for organization and comprehensive powers of conception, active, energetic and ceaselessly working, he was at all times in all his activities and achievements controlled and actuated by the loftiest aspirations, the highest ideals and the worthiest motives the promotion of the public good.

He was a resolute worker for the common weal and always bore his part.

To the last he gave his best.

Adopted by the Board of Directors of the First National Bank of Connellsville and ordered spread upon the minutes at a regular meeting of the said Board held on the Nineteenth day of August, 1910.

JOHN D. FRISBEE, President.

A BEER PARTY AT SCOTTDALE.

Five Fellows Accused of Taking Six Cases of the Fluid.

FOUR MEN ARE HELD FOR COURT

Improvements and Repairs on Arcade Building Look as if Talked of Stauffer Block is Far in Future—Other News Notes.

SCOTTDALE, Aug. 24.—It was a sorry but not wholly unusual ending to the enjoyment of six cases of beer that came to a quartette of residents of this vicinity when they were brought before Justice of the Peace J. C. Brownfield, of East Scottdale yesterday afternoon. There was a fifth fellow in the deal but no evidence being brought out he was allowed to depart in peace, Mike Magliori, who is notable among the Italian people of East Scottdale where he keeps a big boarding house, had several cases of beer in his cellar. They were held in reserve to take the thirsty ones over Sunday, although over in that locality the people boast that the Citizens Water Company's liquid is superior to that furnished in Scottdale. When M. Magleri went to his cellar Sunday morning the beer, six cases, was missing. He waited until yesterday and then suspicions being aroused went before the Justice and wore out warrants against Edward Frick and Andrew Anderson of Swedetown charging them with burglary and Don Cafferty and Tony Gisonni and John Mondillo charging them with larceny and receiving stolen goods. Constable I. P. Crossland came over from Connellsville and rounded up the whole bunch in a short while. When they were brought before the Justice Cafferty and Gisonni gave away the sad story, placing the blame on Frick and Anderson saying that they met them with cases of the beer and that they went back to Magleri's where the first visitors went down into the cellar and handed up the beer to them. The four took the beer away and everyone had at least a drink. As the outcome of the trial Frick and Anderson were held on a burglary charge without bail and taken to jail at Uniontown, while Cafferty and Gisonni were held on the charge of larceny and receiving stolen goods, the bail being set at $300. They each gave bail. John Mondillo was discharged. Two of the empty beer cases have been found, one in Jacobs Creek and the other down around one of the works.

Repairing Show House.

R. M. Claybaugh is having the Arcade building which used to be the Baptist church, at Pittsburg and Spring street corner, greatly improved for the season. A new composition roof is being put on, the building is to be painted inside and out, and the stage enlarged. A lot of people have imagined for a long time that the Stauffer interests who own the lot were going to put up a big bank and business building and perhaps an opera house. These expectations appear to be doomed to be disappointments for a while yet.

Away For Niagra.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Darling and children Evelyn and Harold and Miss Ella King of Scottdale, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hixon of West Overton and Mr. and Mrs. William Weaver of west o town left yesterday to view the water going over Niagara Falls and take a trip over into Canada.

Showing Its Improvements.

Under Contractor John M. Pyle, the Rayger building, which is undergoing remodeling is beginning to give an idea of what it is to look like when completed, although but the second story of the front has been built up. The brick work and new windows give promise of making the front a very handsome one.

Fall Plowing Begun.

Although the dry weather left many fields baked hard like a brick, there are some of the farmers who have been able to jump in with plows and tear up the ground the last few days. These fortunate farmers are not so many, however. Manure hauling is now a favored method of passing the time on the farm, and many are spreading the growth hastener over the fields.

DRAWS "OLD GUARD" OUT.

Does Taft Statement Issued on Roosevelt Imbroglio in New York.

New York, Aug. 24.—William Barnes, Jr., of Albany, representing the "old guard," the regular New York state Republican organization, issued a statement last night in which he said:

"All citizens will rejoice at the statement of Mr. Roosevelt that he will go to the Saratoga convention, if Nassau county will send him, and that there will be no compromise on his part, because the people are entitled to know where the Republican party stands on all public matters.

"Difference between members of a political party should be fought out at political conventions. Then when the majority opinion has been recorded it is the duty of all to support the ticket and the platform or leave activity in the party.

"When Mr. Griscom interjected Mr Roosevelt's name as a candidate for the temporary chairmanship of the Republican state convention, without the members of the state committee knowing where Mr. Roosevelt stood on the issues now before the people in this state, and after the vice president had been placed in nomination before that committee, thereby forcing an issue which it was not the intention of the majority of the committee to create, he simply threw a firebrand in the Republican situation entirely unwarranted and for what purpose it is not for me to say.

"So unwise was his action that President Taft has been called upon to disclaim the absurd charge that he was responsible for the selection of Mr. Sherman. Of course, he was not responsible, nor was he consulted. Why should he be? The selection of Mr. Sherman, a highly proper one, was made by the committee itself, which was a function belonging to it and to no other body of men or to a single man."

MRS. CUDAHY GETS DIVORCE.

Court Proceedings Take Only Few Minutes in Kansas City.

Kansas City, Aug. 24.—Mrs Jack Cudahy was granted a divorce in Justice Slover's court. The petition was on account of "incompatibility." It had been agreed that the four children should be given to the care of Mr. Cudahy's father, Michael Cudahy of Omaha.

Mrs. Cudahy was on the stand ten minutes only and immediately after her testimony that her husband had treated her cruelly a divorce decree was granted her.

What the amount of the alimony is—and it is generally understood that there is alimony—the attorneys refused to state.

A friend of the family said that Cudahy, Sr., has agreed to pay her $5,000 for the first year and $1,000 per year thereafter as long as she remains single. She is to have the household furniture.

"She expects to go on the vaudeville stage where she will sing two songs playing her own accompaniment," this friend declared. "She has an offer of a thirty weeks' contract at $500 per week. The settlement has been arranged with Cudahy, Sr., by her father.

TRANSPORTATION DEPT. OF B. & O. DOES WELL

In Year of Rising Wages It Keeps Increased Expenditures Remarkably Low.

NEW YORK, Aug. 24.—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company's earnings are not exactly reassuring as to the state of the transportation business in trunk line territory, even though they exhibit an increase of $154,000 in net earnings. The gain in gross earnings is, relatively and actually, the smallest the road has experienced, with the single exception of December, 1909, since February, 1909, and the December gain is an exception as to amount only, not as to percentage over the year before.

Until July Baltimore & Ohio's ratio of gain in gross had been pretty steadily at or about 20% since the fall of 1909. This is a larger ratio than most of the trunk line roads have experienced, but the Baltimore & Ohio was slow to recover from the effects of the depression and made by no means an enviable record in 1909. Hence, by comparison, it seems to have been doing more business than other roads the past 12 months.

Net earnings have not gained anything like a normal proportion of the gross increases.

The chief reason for the generally low level of the net percentages above is the enormous increase of $7,500,000 in maintenance charges the past year. On way and structures alone the increase was equivalent to $561 per mile of road, while on roadbed and equipment together no less than $1,800 per mile was added to the maintenance accounts. Transportation expenses increased $4,746,407, but this was not out of proportion to the gain of $16,000,000 in gross earnings, the transportation ratio having, in fact, been reduced from 31.1% to 30.5%.

In a year of rising wages and higher material costs, this fact is decidedly creditable to the operating staff. Presumably it is attributable, at least in part, to the heavier maintenance charges. There can be little doubt that the Baltimore & Ohio pursued a mistaken course in delaying the repair of its equipment so long after the beginning of better times after the slack business of 1908, and therefore there is every reason to suppose that the heavy maintenance expenditures of the past year were not only advisable but necessary.

Thus the real position of the Baltimore & Ohio stockholder is far better today than it was a year ago, and the difference between 9% on the common stock, approximately what was earned in 1909-10, and the 6.65% of the previous year, does not begin to measure the rise in the stockholder's fortunes. If business should go off, the road will at least be in excellent shape to make and to stand the necessary economies; if, as now seems not unlikely, the crops are good enough to revive industry as well as to furnish their own average tonnage, the B. & O. will be able to make the most of the access of new traffic. As a matter of fact this road's recent large receipt of new freight cars and its pending orders for more cars and locomotives, and its fairly heavy borrowing of the past months better prepare it for the latter than for the former contingency.

In respect to the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton undertaking the position of the B. & O. leaves much to be desired. That road is cutting down its annual deficit, but it apparently failed to meet its fixed charges for the past year by $600,000 or $700,000. Not all of these charges are guaranteed by the B. & O. but the latter nevertheless has to a very considerable extent made itself responsible for the success of the reorganization. Its assistance will no doubt take the form of funds advanced until such time as the smaller road is self-supporting.

In any but the most improbable event the Baltimore & Ohio can be expected to do as well this fiscal year as it did the last. The new management has brought with its a new order of things, characteristic of which are a stricter regard for the physical condition of the property, closer attention to the needs of the communities served and greater energy and decision in the prosecution of construction and extension work.

"Whitewash" for Firemen Last Evening

The "calling down" noised about town yesterday, as being due to three members of the fire department, last evening when the Public Safety Committee met, did not occur, as the men were able to give a satisfactory explanation of their failure to notify Chief J. W. Mitchell of the call for aid from Indian Creek last Friday. Dispatcher Kelly of the Baltimore & Ohio, was present, and stated that he had received the call from up the mountains, they said that the lumber company wanted a fire engine. As we was aware that Connellsville is lacking such an apparatus, he told the firemen on duty that "could do no good."

The men present to defend themselves were Arch Holliday, Lee Nicholson and John Haddock. Their story was the same, adding that since only an engine was required, they did not deem it necessary to notify their chief. They were not censured, but were instructed always to notify the chief hereafter.

ARREST CAUSES BIG SENSATION.

Informations Against Ex-Congressmen Sibley and Others.

CROOKED WORK IS CHARGED

Information Alleges That Sibley Did "Unlawfully, Maliciously and Corruptly Conspire" With Other Defendants to Debauch the Electors.

Warren, Pa., Aug. 24.—Joseph C. Sibley of Warren, whose arrest on a charge of conspiracy to bribe and debauch the voters of Warren county, followed his resignation as the Republican nominee for congress, and his codefendants, Frank H. Taylor of Franklin, and George B. Munn, Charles D. Crandall and David M. Howard, all of this county, have given their recognizances to appear here next Friday morning before Justice H. F. Perry before whom the information against Sibley and his alleged co-conspirators was made. No bail has been asked.

The information, which has caused such a political sensation, was made by Walter S. Page, constable of the First ward of Warren. Page is represented by Attorney D. I. Ball, who is a Republican of insurgent tendencies. The constable is said to be backed by prominent men.

There may be a hitch in the proceedings because of an error in the information, which names June 11 as the date of the primary. The primary election was held June 4. This mistake, it is said, will necessitate a repetition of the formality of arrest on a new information, naming the correct primary date.

What the Information Alleges.

After giving the names and addresses of the defendants and reciting that a primary election was held on June 11 the information alleges that on June 11 and divers other dates Sibley did "unlawfully, maliciously and corruptly conspire, combine and confederate" with Taylor and other defendants "to procure by unlawful, fraudulent and corrupt means the unlawful and corrupt bribing and debauching of the electors of Warren county."

By these means, it is alleged, the defendants secured Sibley's nomination for congress in the Twenty-eighth district.

The informations state that the conspirators used the following sums of money, paid over by Sibley and his secretary, Taylor, to effect their purpose: To Charles Crandall, $13,800; to George B. Munn, $5,500; to D. M. Howard $4,000; to D. F. Wheelock, $2,500; to William McCray, $250; to C. J. Olosen, $625; to R. J. Schumacher, $625; to Albert Erickson, $810; to John A. Swanson, $1,000. These amounts total $29,120.

Sibley's Comment.

Mr. Sibley in commenting on the action, said:

"I do not see how a man lying on his back sick in Franklin county could commit a crime in Warren county, where this conspiracy is alleged to have occurred."

In reviewing the sums of money alleged to have been used Mr. Sibley explains that when he filed his expense account showing an expenditure of over $17,000 in Warren county there was also a supplementary statement filed by C. D. Crandall, to whom he admits he gave $13,800 to be used in the campaign. In his statement he told also of giving Howard $4,000. He says that the supplementary statements of Crandall and Howard show that they gave the money to the other men named as recipients of his campaign fund.

RIOTING IN COAL STRIKE

Sympathizers Cause Much Trouble at Old Forge, Pa.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Aug. 24.—Riotous strike sympathizers at the No. 2 colliery of the Pennsylvania Coal company at Old Forge, near here, made an effort to stop all work at the colliery by dynamiting the pipes taking the steam supply to the mine. The pipes were shattered for a long distance.

Following this sympathizers drove back a number of mineworkers who wanted to get to work. In several instances these men were roughly treated and stoned. Special police who went to the aid of these workers were able to do but little good. An extra force of state constabulary and state police have been sent to the mines.

"Scandalous Attire" of Women in Public Denounced.

London, Aug. 24.—A dispatch from Rome received by a news agency states that Pope Pius X. has requested all bishops to publish pastoral letters disapproving of the prevailing feminine fashions.

Several Italian bishops says the dispatch, have already done so at Milan, Turin and Venice. At these places the priests are denouncing in the churches the "scandalous attire" in which ladies have been appearing in public.

The Climate is superb! More sunshiny days than in Southern Italy. No damaging frosts, snows, droughts or blizzards, but sunshine the year round.

Markets are close at hand. Roads radiate in all directions from property, which is on the main line of the Southern Pacific Railroad. Distance to San Francisco only 150 miles; to Sacramento, 88 miles. The nearby Sacramento River is open to freight navigation the year round.

Only 4c a day is what a Sacramento Valley Irrigated Farm costs you per acre. You have ten years in which to pay for it. $15 an acre the first year; $10.00 the second; $11.00 the third, and so on—the land more than paying for itself from crop profits year by year. Upon completion of payments the irrigation works become the property of the owners of the farms, with permanent water rights granted by the State of California and confirmed by Act of Congress.

HOKE SMITH BEATS BROWN

Nominated Again by Georgia Democrats For Governor.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 24.—Hoke Smith "came back" and was nominated for the second time for governor of Georgia, defeating Governor Joseph M. Brown, who two years ago defeated Smith after he had dismissed Brown from the railroad commission on the ground that Brown was dominated by the railroad interests.

Congressman Hardwick of the Tenth district has been renominated in spite of the fact that Tom Watson stumped the district for Hardwick's opponents. Hardwick's victory eliminates Watson from Georgia politics.

DEVELOPMENT OF RURAL LIFE

Urged by Colonel Roosevelt in His Utica Speech.

SWATS "SUNNY JIM" SHERMAN

In Paying Compliment to State Senator Davenport, Vice President's Bitter Foe, the Colonel Makes Political Pass at Sherman.

Utica, N. Y., Aug. 24.—Mr. Roosevelt came into Vice President Sherman's home town and began his long speechmaking tour by swatting Mr. Sherman. The colonel didn't mention names because that wasn't necessary.

Mr. Roosevelt, as he arose to speak, swept his eye over the picturesque crowd and it lighted upon Senator Davenport.

"I am glad to see Senator Davenport on the platform," he shouted. Davenport is a bitter foe of Sherman and has been working to throw him out.

"I am glad," the colonel continued, when the cheering had ceased, "because the only kind of politics I care for is the kind of politics where decency is combined with efficiency, and I hold that the only way by which a politician can efficiently serve his party is by helping that party efficiently serve the people and because the senator and those associated with him who have stood for those principles are on the platform."

Colonel Roosevelt in his talk on farm life said in part:

Mr. Roosevelt's Speech.

"There are no two public questions of more vital importance to the future of this country than the problem of conservation and the problem of the betterment of public life. Moreover, these two problems are really interdependent.

"In any great country the prime physical asset—the physical asset more valuable than any other—is the fertility of the soil. This, of course, means the conservation of the soil as the great natural resource, and equally, of course, it furthermore implies the development of country life, for there cannot be a permanent improvement of the soil if the life of those who live on it and make their living out of it is suffered to starve and languish to become stunted and, weazened and inferior to the type of life lived elsewhere.

"We are now trying to preserve for the permanent benefit of the whole people the waters and the forests, and we are doing this primarily as a means of adding to the fertility of the soil, although in each case there is a great secondary use both of the water and of the forests for commercial and industrial purposes. In the same way it is essential for the farmers themselves to try to broaden the life of the man who lives in the open country."

The colonel then touched upon city life as compared with country life, saying that while the growth of a city was not bad for the country, it was good only to the point when the growth is at the expense of the country and tended to drain the country of its people. To make the country as attractive as the city, then, should be the aim of all, in which the farmer himself should take the lead. Mr. Roosevelt continued.

Why Farmers Lag.

"One reason why the great business men of today have gone ahead while the farmer has tended to sag behind the others is that the are far more willing and indeed eager to profit by export and technical knowledge—the knowledge that can only come as a result of the highest education.

"In just the same way the farmers should benefit by the advice of the technical men who have been trained in phases of the very work the farmer does.

"The farmer, however, must not only make his land pay, but he must make country life interesting for himself and for his wife and his sons and daughters. Our people as a whole should realize the infinite possibilities of life in the country, and every effort should be made to make these possibilities more possible.

"Country folks should demand that they work on equal terms with city folks in all public matters. The country church should be made a true social center, alive to every need of the community, standing for a broad individual outlook and development. The country fair offers far greater possibilities for continuous and healthy usefulness than it at present affords. The country school should be made a vital center for economic, social and educational co-operation.

"No country life can be satisfactory when the owners of farms tend, for whatever reason, to go away to live in cities instead of working their farms, and, moreover, it cannot be really satisfactory when the labor system is so managed that there is for part of the year a demand for labor which cannot be met and during an other part of the year no demand for labor at all, so that the farmers tend to rely on migratory laborers who come out to work in the country with no permanent interest in it and with no prospect of steady employment.

"Above all, the conditions to farm life must always be shaped with a view to the welfare of the farmer's wife and the farm laborer's wife quite as much as to the welfare of the farmer and the farm laborer. To have the woman a mere drudge is at least as bad as to have the man a mere drudge."

CHAPTER X.

The Voice of the People Is Heard.

Gormly's refusal to accept the indorsement and become the nominee of the outs created a great sensation. It was an evidence, which by and by even the stupid could apprehend, that Gormly literally meant what he said when he declared that he was to be an absolutely independent candidate, tied to no faction, bound by no party, entirely free and unfettered.

The men who rallied to his support, while as innocent as babes in the practical politics affected by Liffey and Benson, were nevertheless men of abounding zeal, keen intelligence, and high quality. Nor were the workers that gathered round the new leader entirely from the social set and circle of the Haldanes. Gormly in one way or another employed a vast number of working men. His relations with them had always been not merely "square," as they phrased it, but kind and generous. They were organized and started at work immediately in every direction. Before the enemy realized it, ample time had been secured in every possible assembly room and there were nightly meetings all over the city.

In the Gormly store itself was a great auditorium in which free concerts, lectures, and entertainments had been given for the employes and patrons of the store. This auditorium had outside entrances and could be completely cut off from the other business. Every afternoon he assembled in the auditorium the workers and speakers, and every afternoon there was the freest possible discussion of the issues, of what was to be said in the speeches of the night, of the places to be covered. The man showed a genius for leadership and direction that was amazing. He developed a power of succinctly presenting the facts, which in large measure he was able to communicate to his followers.

Livingstone Haldane's example had been followed by not a few young men of fortune and position. It became in a certain sense among a certain set the fashion to campaign for Gormly. Automobiles of all sorts were available for transporting speakers, and classes and social distinctions were wiped out in the greater issues involved. By these methods what was picturesquely described in the city papers as a whirlwind campaign was inaugurated.

It must not be supposed that the opposition was idle; by no means. Never had its activities been so great, its energies so manifestly put forth. It had welcomed with joy the news of the refusal of Gormly to become the candidate of the minority party. Liffey had at once decided in his own mind that that settled the issue. Even farther sighted men like Rutherford were of the same opinion. Haldane alone, the wisest, shrewdest, and ablest of the group, was not convinced, and under his vigorous though secret urgings the ring redoubled its efforts to beat the man.

At the proper time the proposition from the party in power to make a combination with the outs was sprung upon the public. It was hailed on one side as an evidence of the fairness of the party in power and the Sachem society, which many people imagined needed no alliance of that kind. It was considered as testimony to the fact that the party in power had nothing to conceal, since it admitted the outs to its councils, and that it was sincerely desirous of giving New York a business administration in which all factions and parties should be represented. There was truth in the contention, too. The only faction or party that would not be represented by this alliance would be the common people.

Wiser heads, however, realized that altruistic methods were inconsistent entirely with the real spirit of either party and saw in the alliance a confession of weakness. And the editorial contingent of the Gormly papers seized upon this idea and made the most of it. In the beginning, Gormly's advertisements, including his political manifestos, had been printed in every paper in the city. They were paid for as other advertisements are—and why not? But the Sachem society had put the screws on certain journals which owed much to its influence, and because of this pressure they had summarily refused any more of Gormly's unique proclamations. They professed themselves entirely ready to print his business advertisements at the usual rates. Gormly retaliated, of course, by withdrawing all advertising of any sort from them, and doubling the space he purchased in the other papers. Naturally, therefore, the press divided in two sections; those that were controlled by the party in power, and those that were favorable to the new candidate.

Incidentally, nothing that he could have said or done could have so increased the business of his store! His business rivals and associates indeed suggested, and the suggestion was quickly seized upon by the administration papers, that the whole thing was a clever advertising dodge, and that Gormly was simply using his candidacy to boom his business. There was no satisfactory answer to this argument, which was one of the best that could have been devised by the opposition, and it was harped upon immensely, although their leader was vigorously justified from this charge by his army of fighters.

The expenses of the campaign were enormous. Not one cent was paid out for bribery or for the purpose of influencing votes in any improper way; but the hiring of halls, the payment of the expenses of meetings, organization, transportation, printing, salaries, and so on aggregated an extraordinary sum. Even Gormly himself had not realized how great these expenses would be; but he paid them without blenching. His resources were vast. He put at the disposal of his candidacy all the accumulations and earnings of twenty-five years. He saw that by the time the vote was taken, his ready money would be expended. Of course, he would still have his great business, which would be entirely unencumbered; but everything else would go.

He still kept to his plan of printing every week sworn statements of his expenses, challenging the other party to do the same. The reason the society did not publish its expense account was not because it was ashamed of the amount, for it was vastly greater than what Gormly expended. They had nearly as many expenses as he, except for the newspaper advertising, which they got free, and in addition they disbursed an immense bribery and corruption fund through Liffey, Connell, Habberley and Benson.

Again and again were Haldane and his associates called upon for remittances, which were invariably forthcoming. There was no possibility of refusal. Failure to win a victory would mean financial ruin to many of them. Fortunately for him, it did not mean so much to Haldane, although his great fortune would be seriously impaired by defeat. Most of the others, however, had turned over everything that they possessed, and pledged their credit as well, to the vast syndicate of which he was the head. Indeed, he and Van Slyke would be the only ones not totally ruined by the election of Gormly. Consequently they paid and paid and paid, protesting in their hearts but shutting their teeth grimly and handing out the cash, which was disbursed to the best advantage by Liffey and Benson.

Gormly himself spoke every night somewhere, and the crowds that greeted him were enormous. Meanwhile every detective in the employ of the city, and all others who could be suborned, were concentrating their efforts on Gormly's past and present. He could not take a step outside of his office without being shadowed. It was not difficult for spies to mingle with the crowd of buyers in his store and scrutinize every person who entered his private room. They had so far discovered nothing. Gormly had lived an absolutely clean, upright, honest, hardworking life since he landed in New York. They did not find out where he came from or even where he was born. The only possible clue they had was the statement that he had once been in the west, with which Haldane had supplied them. Men had scoured the principal cities of the west; but nothing had been learned. Connell was in despair. He and Liffey and Benson had again and again been on the eve of determining upon the manufacture of some degrading or incriminating story which would at least serve their purpose. It would not be difficult to get witnesses to such an endeavor; but it would be highly dangerous to resort to such an expedient, and they were still hesitating and undecided.

About this time the disputed franchise expired. A resolution was immediately introduced in the board of aldermen at the city hall granting a renewal of it to the Gotham Freight Traction company. Every move in the game was watched, and the resolution had scarcely been read and referred to a committee when it was communicated to Gormly. The next day the Gormly papers rang with the charge that the city fathers intended to give away its most valuable remaining public franchise to the Gotham Freight Traction company.

At the next meeting, despite the furious protests of the Gormly party, the resolution was put upon its passage. Gormly here played his greatest political card. Attended by a body of friends, he presented himself at the council chamber and forced admission. When the resolution renewing the franchise was about to be voted upon, as a citizen of New York deeply interested in the matter he demanded to be heard. Before permission was either granted or refused by the astonished presiding officer, Gormly drew from his pocket a piece of paper. Amid the deepest silence he held it up and said:

"I offer $10,000,000 for this franchise. If it be granted me, I shall guarantee to operate the road in the interests of the people, and turn over all the profits above six per cent. on my investment, to the people themselves. Lest there should be any doubt of my ability to make good," continued the merchant, "I beg to say that I have in my hand a forfeiture check for one-fourth of the amount in question, which is certified to by the City of Gotham National bank."

"The gentleman is out of order," remarked the presiding officer as soon as he could recover his equipoise. "We are not auctioning off public franchises to the highest bidder. We are granting this one in the interests of the public to the company which has already served the people so well and has assumed the burden of the great system of which this is the necessary connecting link."

"Sir!" cried Gormly, amid a chorus of groans, hisses and cheers, "I protest against—"

"Any other interruptions from the speaker," came quickly from the chair, "and any further expressions of approval or disapproval from the spectators, will result in the clearing of the room by the sergeant at arms."

"I call," said one of the aldermen, "for a vote on the resolution."

"Those in favor of the granting of the franchise will say aye," immediately said the chairman.

There was a furious chorus of "Shame! shame!" from a great number of spectators in which the feeble "ayes" were scarcely heard.

"Those opposed," went on the voice of the chairman, trembling with excitement, "will signify it by saying no."

A thundering shout of "Noes" rang through the hall, the few in opposition making up by their vociferation for their small numbers.

"The ayes have it," said the chairman, hammering on the desk with his gavel.

"Division! Division!" clamored the opposition.

"Those in favor," continued the chairman, disgusted at being compelled to put the administration thus on record, but powerless to prevent it, "will stand up."

Amid shouts and cries and disorder never before equaled, the members of the administration got to their feet. The whip that had been cracked over their heads had been used to effect. Some of them were mere ignorant tools; others were able to understand what they were doing. They all voted alike. A score of alert reporters from carefully prepared lists were checking off the votes.

"The ayes have it; the ordinance is passed," cried the chairman triumphantly, after the noes had been called to their feet and counted.

"I move," said Alderman Hellman, "that we do now adjourn."

The motion was carried with a rush, and instantly the spectators began a wild scramble from the hall. Among the first to leave was Gormly. The corridor and stairs were packed with people who had been unable to gain admittance to the chamber, but had learned what was toward.

When Gormly's well known figure was seen in the doorway, a great shout of acclaim rose from the multitude.

Gormly had not intended to speak; but the opportunity was too good to be lost. As he descended the steps, the cheering changed into a demand for a speech from him. No hustings had been prepared, but by the curbstone stood a big, high-powered automobile. It was filled with people. Livingstone Haldane sat in the chauffeur's seat. The place beside him was vacant.

"Up here, Mr. Gormly!" he cried, pointing. Without observing who was in the tonneau, Gormly clambered up to the seat and stood on it. He was thus lifted sufficiently high above the crowd.

"Fellow citizens," he began as the cheering subsided and the multitude gave him opportunity to speak, "you know that in order to complete the ring of oppression which holds the city in its iron grasp under the name of the Gotham Freight Traction company, it was necessary that the old franchise of the New York Street Car company expiring today should become the property of that company. Through the franchises they already enjoy, they have created an institution that will enable them to continue their predatory practices—"

"Talk English!" shouted a voice from the crowd.

"Thank you, my friend," answered Gormly. "Which will enable them to steal from you your money, your earnings, your investments, your profits, your capital, whatever you have for the next one hundred years. They have sold bonds to pay for the building of the road; not one cent of their own money has gone into it. They have issued stock to themselves to double or quadruple the value of the investment, and they are determined to make you pay interest, large interest, on that stock as well as on the bonds. But, in order that they can carry out this nefarious and thieving proposition, they must secure this franchise which expired today, otherwise their traction lines will be incomplete, will end in the air, there will be no connection between its ends; for the territory covered by this franchise is so situated that if the lines are to be connected it must be brough this territory. Consequently this franchise is the most valuable of the few remaining properties of the people. You own it; it belongs to you. It's your last chance to get your rights. If you hold it, they are at your mercy.

"This franchise, the possession of which means so much to you, is about to be given away. The council has overwhelmingly passed an ordinance granting it, without restrictions, to the Gotham Freight Traction company for the space of one hundred years. Will you sanction that?"

"Mr. Chairman, I Offer Ten Million Dollars for This Franchise."

OLD TIME MISSISSIPPI METHODS OUT OF DATE.

Captain Formerly Waded to Locate Elusive Channel.

Steamboatmen who have been contending with low water in the upper Mississippi river should consult with the more ancient mariners in the Mississippi for pointers on the movement of boats on low water and then start out to restore navigation on the stream.

Captain William Kelly, secretary of the Mississippi and Ohio River Pilots' society, says this is the first season since 1856 to his personal knowledge that steamboats have ceased to run during the open season.

In the summer of 1856, Captain Kelly says, he was piloting the steamer Stella Whipple when the water was four inches lower than this year's record. The boat was towing two barges as lighters coming down the stream but got stuck on the crossing at Robinson's rocks, fourteen miles below St. Paul.

Captain Kelly says he waded into the river ahead of the boat to locate the best place to drop the anchor and pull the boat over the bar. The water was sixteen inches deep, and the best channel was located by wading, and Captain Kelly returned to the boat without wetting a stitch of his clothing.

The method of pulling the boats over shoal crossings was to carry the anchor out in a yawl ahead of the steamer, drop it to the bottom of the river and pull the boat over by a line attached to the anchor and to the capstan on the boat.

When all was ready the passengers were transferred to the barges to lighten the boat. The run was then made without difficulty till the next crossing was reached, when the anchor and capstan process of pulling the boat over might be repeated.

AVIATORS LIKE ESPERANTO.

No Other Language Spoken at French Flying School.

The connection between aviation and Esperanto is not apparent, yet it must exist, for at Mourmelon le Grand, the great French aviation school, nothing is spoken by the initiated among themselves but Esperanto.

Ernest Archdeacon, who has done much for aviation by offering prizes, is an advocate of the universal language. Henri Farman, who runs his school for flying at Mourmelon, is a master of Esperanto, and among his pupils in flying M. Ellimoff, the Russian; M. Van den Born and Mme. Frank are proficient.

When the day's work is over M. Farman will hoist the Esperanto flag over his hanger and give his pupils lessons in the language. They are of all nationalities, so perhaps that is one reason why aviators have taken up the language.

QUEEN MOTHER DROPS COLOR

Alexandra Gives Away Her Elaborate Court Wardrobes.

The English queen mother, Queen Alexandra, does not intend ever again to wear colors and has given away many of the costly and elaborate garments in the royal wardrobe which she will never use. She will wear the becoming small Mary Stuart bonnet with the peak in front and hanging veil behind for some time to come when out of doors, but indoors she usually wears a white crape headdress with a white crape collar and broad cuffs of the same material.

Queen Alexandra has left the precincts of Buckingham palace only twice since her widowhood, but has taken a good deal of exercise in the beautiful grounds.

Roumania Enforces Reforesting.

Foreign lumber firms which possess and use up the forests of Roumania are to be compelled to pay a tax of $6 an acre as security that the denuded wood surfaces shall be again reforested.

MAHARAJAH MAY LOSE HIS THRONE.

Kapurthala's Monarch Too Expensive in His Tastes.

GRINDS SUBJECTS FOR FUNDS.

Usually Broke, Though Indian Monarchy Nets Him $1,000,000 Annual Income—In Disfavor With Edward VII., But Hopes for Reinstatement at Hands of George V.

New Yorkers and other Americans who were dazzled by the glory of the maharajah of Kapurthala and his glittering suit when he visited the United States a dozen years ago will be interested to know that the lavish Indian potentate's efforts to save his throne seem doomed to fail.

Though in India he is styled "king of kings," he is a vassal of the king of England, who is also emperor of India, and has good reason to fear that he is about to be dethroned.

Tastes Too Expensive.

The maharajah's tastes are too expensive for even his income of nearly a million dollars a year, and he has been playing ducks and drakes with the finances of his state. His native advisers are disgusted with him, and the Indian government has warned him that unless he ceases to be so prodigal he will have to get out.

He went to England, accompanied by his Spanish wife, early this year to try to see King Edward about it. The king would have nothing to do with him there. The importunate maharajah pursued him to Biarritz and engaged a suit of rooms just above his majesty's. He so exasperated King Edward with his attentions that a strong hint was conveyed to him by an equerry that he might as well go home, for there was no chance of getting an audience with the king.

He hopes King George will prove more tractable, but this is far from probable, and unless he leaves off extorting from his impoverished subjects money to be frittered away in Europe his deposition is thought to be certain.

Easy For Tradesmen.

The maharajah is as easy a mark for the tradesmen of the European capitals as was the late shah of Persia. When he was in Biarritz this year he bought eighteen new automobiles in a fortnight. Generally his purchases are conceived on much the same scale.

His wife, a rarely beautiful woman, was a dancing girl in her native Spanish town when he first saw her and fell in love with her. Her name was Anita Delgado. Her equally lovely sister, Victoria Delgado, captivated young Thomas Ross Winans, who married her about three years ago in spite of earnest family objections.

WAR IN COURT OVER FROGS.

Pond Owners Must Suppress Noise German Tribunal Says.

An uncommon case was lately fought before the German tribunals right up to the supreme court in Leipzig.

Two neighbors lived for a long time in close friendship until one of them had an artificial pond constructed in his garden. After a time a number of frogs appeared in the pond, and their croakings were so loud and continuous as to deprive the neighboring family of its nightly rest. The disturbed family objected and, relying on a law which forbids any one from diminishing the value of another's property, requested the pond owner to make arrangements for keeping the frogs within bounds.

The pond owner replied that he was not to blame for the musical activity of the frogs, which he had not placed in the pond. The first tribunal upheld the pond owner on the ground that the frogs were a dispensation of nature which must be put up with, like the sun and rain. The judgment was upset by the next higher tribunal, and the decision of the latter was affirmed by the supreme court.

The supreme court reasoned that whoever made a pond had to reckon with the subsequent appearance of frogs and that the noise emitted by them constituted injury to neighboring property.

PAUL JONES MODEL FINISHED

Sculptor Begins Work on Heroic Statue For Capital.

Charles H. Niehaus, the New York sculptor, has finished his working model for his heroic bronze statue of John Paul Jones, for which congress appropriated $50,000, which will be unveiled next spring at the entrance to Potomac park in front of Seventeenth street, N. W., Washington.

Niehaus has been working on the statue for about two years. In depicting the features of the Revolutionary hero the sculptor has used the terra cotta bust by Houdon; now in the possession of the National Academy of Design, as a model. The commander of the Bonhomme Richard is represented as watching a naval engagement, his right hand clinched and his left hand holding his sword.

German Toy Exports Doubled.

Germany exported toys to the value of $18,000,000 in 1909 as against $9,000,000 in 1908. German toys go to all countries of the world.

Thursday—Trotter at Morgan; Bitner at Monarch; Lemont at Davidson.

Leisenring defeated Lemont 4 to 3 in a fast game at Lemont last evening. The Leisenring team played great ball behind twirler S. Jones. Both Voyda and Gunnan did the honors in the box. Voyda pitched well enough to win half a dozen games but the support behind him was ragged.

With Brown on the sick list, Lemont sent Shultz to first base, Bowers to second, Goodwin to short and Voyda to third. Bowers weakened under the pace at record so Gardner came in.

Gunnan went into right field after being derricked. The Lemont boys simply gasped at the flashy fielding stunts pulled off by Leisenring. Lemont showed stronger than at any previous time this season. The two Patricks and Shultz have increased the teams hitting power. A little practice will get the team running smoothly. Leisenring did to play the game every minute to get away with it. Umpire Herwick performed well, Lemont making a kick on only one play, at third base. The score:

BUTE PROTESTS FORFEIT AWARDED TO TROTTER

Claim Game Should Have Ended in the Eighth Inning in Bute's Favor.

The Bute team has entered a protest against the forfeiture of Monday's game to Trotter by Umpire Duggan. The matter will be presented at a meeting of the Frick league to be held Friday evening.

According to Umpire Duggan, Bute left the field after Cunningham had been declared safe in the ninth inning. Duggan says the Bute catcher stood behind the plate and when he touched Cunningham with the ball the runner had his feet across the plate and was clearly safe.

The Bute players claim Duggan's eyesight is at fault. That is not their principal kick, however. The statement made by Bute is that the game was to have gone seven innings. As the teams were tied at the end of that number of innings, it is claimed the contest should have been called at the end of the eighth, when the tie was broken, the score being 4 to 3 in Bute's favor.

If seven innings were agreed upon the Bute team evidently erred in going to bat in the ninth inning. The Chinese puzzle will be up to the League Directors Friday night.

Bute has waived its claim to the forfeited game against Bitner two weeks ago. The Bitner team was unable to appear to play off a tie and it has been decided to play the game over. Having received assurances that Bute would play the game at some date in the near future, the Game is attached from the League records. The score of the Trotter-Bute game, received yesterday too late for publication, follows:

Frick League Notes.

A meeting of the league has been called for Friday evening. The season has but little more than a week to run and important matters must be taken into consideration.

Sisley puts up a great game at first. The Lemont fans say.

"Oh, you Geisle!" Hit the ball across the creek in the first inning and only made two bases on it. They say there were several attractions for the gingery lad along the side lines.

The attendance at Lemont was 101 yesterday. Four hundred rooted for Lemont while Charlie Franks pulled for Leisenring.

Lemont fans tout Conroy as the best third baseman in the league. They say if you don't believe it, just watch him.

Barry spoiled a couple of long hits by rapid fielding. He cut down two apparent doubles to mere singles.

W. Patrick and Shultz have strengthened Lemont's hitting. Inability to hit at the right time has been Lemont's trouble right along. The team needed a couple of good sluggers to make them formidable.

The Lemont outfit is a gingery bunch just now. Conroy and Patrick are given credit for injecting lots of life into the players.

Quite a number of the Frick leaguers are taking in the picnic at Kennywood today. "Speaky" Means, the hero of Bitner, is to catch for Dawson.

Monarch is the one team in the league that deserves a lot of credit for sticking to the same lineup in spite of a defeat or two. The wisdom of this policy will be apparent in the league race next season. Leisenring has also kept its team fairly intact.

Trotter goes to Morgan tomorrow and will stack up against the reorganized Valley team. Whether Morgan has improved by the radical changes made lately remains to be seen.

THREATS OF REVOLUTION IN PORTUGAL FRIGHTEN KING MANUEL AND DUKE OF OPORTO.

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 21.—The government is greatly disturbed over the intense activity of the republicans in preparing for the general elections which are to be held next Sunday. The candidates for office, many of them men of prominence, including officers of the army and navy, have entered every constituency in the country. The authorities have searched the homes of a number of republicans and have found stores of arms and ammunition. It is known that a quantity of rifles and revolvers daily are being smuggled into the country across the Spanish frontier and that the republicans now are well armed. It is feared that the elections will be marked by disturbances. It is said that the Duke of Oporto, heir apparent to the throne, has taken refuge in a fortress after hearing of the formation of several regiments to join the revolutionists. No explanation has been vouchsafed by the government as to why it considers the papal nuncio at Lisbon, Mgr. Tonti, objectionable. The semiofficial communication said that the Portuguese charge d'affaires to the Vatican had explained the situation to the Pope. Despite the silence of the government it is understood that the trouble between it and Mgr. Tonti had its origin in the campaign of the clericals following the government's censuring of the archbishop of Braga for suppressing a Portuguese Franciscan newspaper without submitting the order to the Portuguese government for approval and because of the alleged action of the Vatican in placing difficulties in the way of the appointment of an ambassador to the Vatican.

MORGAN WON.

Defeated Dawson All Stars 5 to 1 Yesterday.

OWENSDALE, Aug. 21.—(Special.) Morgan beat William Gault's Dawson All Stars 5 to 1 in a loosely played game. H. Klingelsmith banged one of Herbert's shoots to the ridge for the circuit in the first.

The names of several more women have been added to the committee in charge of the stands at the festival to be held Thursday evening. Articles of all descriptions are disappearing and going into guess cakes to be auctioned off Thursday evening. The feminine charm has been broken as the ladies are keeping mum when it comes to keeping the matter secret.

Leisenring, Trotter, Scottdale, Connellsville and Everson will send hundreds of fans to see Thursday's battle.

The results of the games played in the Central Frick and National league will be marked up on the score board as soon as each game is played. The grounds will be brilliantly lighted with Japanese lanterns.

Horne will probably oppose Mullin on the mound tomorrow. The game promises to be an interesting one.

WANT LANDS OPEN.

Governors of Two States Make Pilgrimage to Washington.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 23.—The Governors of North and South Dakota, acting as a committee to represent other western Governors, conferred with Assistant Secretary of the Interior Pierce relative to the opening to settlement of coal lands in several western States. Large areas in many States, especially North and South Dakota, were classified as coal lands and withdrawn from settlement, although more recent classification has shown these lands were most valuable as agricultural lands, the coal being of low grade.

Congress at the last session passed a law authorizing the leasing of the surface of such lands for agricultural purposes, the government retaining title to the coal or other minerals. The western governors want the Department of the Interior to prepare the forms of leases and open the lands to entry and settlement.

Prescribed By Doctors.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, an honest, tried and true remedy for feminine ills, holds the record for the largest number of actual cures of any similar remedy, and is prescribed and recommended by hundreds of fair-minded doctors who do not fear to recommend a worthy medicine even though it is advertised.

Announcement of the Opening Display and Sale of Fall and Winter Shoes

And Some Interesting Facts Concerning Our Footwear.

The Idea

The object of this idea will interest you, so we'll omit details of certain rules laid down to the makers of our footwear. We wanted to sell for $3 and upward better shoes than what you've always paid $3 and more for. So we had to make them ourselves. The expenses of nation-wide advertising was eliminated and put into leather, style and workmanship. Our success proves we are out of the experimental stage and our object is assured. It's the new Fall "Wright-Metzler Idea." Shoes we invite you to inspect, buy and wear under a guarantee of satisfaction—absolutely.

The Shoes

Button Shoes for both sexes seem to predominate. High heels and high toes and short vamps are very good. The shapes are varied although sensible, comfortable easy wearing lasts are to be had in all styles. For men gun metal, choverette, buckskin, box kid, willow calf, vici and patent leathers. Two lasts of particular note are: Happy Jack and Towser. Prices $3, $3.50, $4, $4.50 and $5.

For women cravenettes in black and grey, suede, buckskin, patent, gun metal and Russian calf at $2.50 with a 50c rise to $5.

RAIN ASSISTS FIRE FIGHTERS.

Hopes That Forest Blaze Will Soon Be Under Control.

MONTANA MILITIA ORDERED OUT

Nothing But Heavy Downpour Will Quench the Fires, But Drizzle Will Help Stay the Flames—Rumors of Loss of Life Received.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 24.—Light rain began to fall in Wallace, Ida., and other Coeur d'Alene mining towns that have been scorched or threatened by forest fires, and the weary fire fighters took new hope.

Nothing but a long and heavy downpour will quench the flames that are eating up the big trees, but a shower may help stay the fires.

Idaho militia and United States troops are on the way to fight the fires, but the soldiers can accomplish little more than to protect the threatened towns.

The most startling rumors of loss of life pour in, but it is impossible to verify them. It seems probable that aside from losses among the National rangers, the number of dead in the three states will not exceed 100 when the smoke shall have cleared away.

Thirty Known Dead.

*Al of known dead to date com*piled in Spokane contains only thirty-four names. Other deaths have not been verified.

A special from Wallace says that Forest Supervisor Weigle has received word that 200 men, under Chief Ranger Kootkey, perished in camp near Falcon, at the headwaters of the St Joe river.

The other loss of life is estimated at 100. The mining town of Wardner is almost surrounded by flames and miners are out fighting the fire.

The fires in the Coeur d'Alene National forest are beyond control and timber worth millions of dollars is burning.

The fires on the Coeur d'Alene Indian reservation are checked, as are those of Palmous National forest.

Government Is Big Loser.

Along the St. Joe river, which runs through what is described as the largest body of standing white pine timber in the United States, there is a continuous fire from Plummer to a point in Montana. The United States is the largest loser. Next in importance are the losses sustained by the Chicago, Milwaukee and Puget Sound railroad, which has suffered destruction of bridges, buildings and timber lands for forty miles.

The fire along the Northern Pacific, in western Montana, have diminished. They were largely in timber that had been burned over in former years. The Idaho fires are burning virgin forests.

Pen d'Oreille Valley In Flames.

The Pen d'Oreille valley, heavily timbered, is on fire in several places and loss of life is feared. It is difficult to get news from that region.

Four families of homesteaders reported burned to death on La Tour creek, Kootenai county, Ida., escaped to St. Joes, wading four miles along the bed of the creek with fire burning down to the water's edge, forcing the refugees frequently to submerge themselves when the flames reached their faces. An old man in the party was borne on a stretcher all the way. Their clothes were burned nearly off.

While 900 forest rangers are missing in Idaho and Montana it is probable that most of them will escape death.

The telephone lines through the National forests have been destroyed or interrupted and the rangers might be safe, but unable to report.

State Militia Ordered Out.

Butte, Mont., Aug. 24.—Governor Norris last night ordered out state troops to fight forest fires.

GIRL CLAIMS SHE WAS SOLD

Parents Given $50 by Would-Be Husband, She Asserts.

East Liverpool, O., Aug. 24.—Alleging that she had been sold for $50 to become the wife of John Rossi by her mother, Josephine Polombo, a pretty Italian girl of fifteen years, has disappeared from her home.

She is being protected by several well-to-do American families in Chester from a marriage that the girl claims she does not want to take part in. A fortnight ago seven Italians kept an all-night vigil around a Chester home, believing that they had located the girl. They intended to kidnap her as soon as she appeared on the street.
